UEMO 2001/115

SLOVENIAN REPLY TO UEMO 2001/113

Slovenia doesn't have specific arrangements for those who have taken a career brake, but we have a system of licensing which might be considered as part of it.

In a period of 7 years any medical doctor must collect an amount of points collected through CME. It is not written doctor must be working in practice at that time. There were some ideas that doctor must be were not officially accepted. If doctor doesn't have enough points for a licensing period he/she must pass an exam. It is not stated what program of education or training must have first. It is said only- individually and a tutor is appointed.

I also strongly support a Norwegian remark on Equal opportunities statement.
